EDUCTION OF CLUB RATES. Monrounce Piats Co. III., Sept. 6, 188.
Editors Press and Tribunes:
This is the day that Hon. A. Lincoln had appointed to address the people of Piats County. At an early hour the 'country folk' began to flock into town in every conceivable mode of transit, and as early as 5 o'clock the town was hierally alive with the sturdy ycomanry of Piats County.

At 10 o'clock, the delegation from the adjoining County of Champaign resched town and was met and preceded through the principal sirrests by a deputation of the Piats boys and girls, each of the former of whom bore an American flag, and the latter representing and bearings the names of all the States. The Champaign delegation presented a lively appearance. It was at least 700 strong, had two bands of music and banners almost innumerable. I give you some of the Beman, Judge Jessup, Hon. Linna Child, and others. The house was crowded to overflowing, the attendance from abroad axceeding all expectations.

DETROIT, 8th.—The American Board of Foreign Missions was addressed this afternoon chiefly by Westera men, all expressing confidence in their churches to sustain it more fully as it enlarges operations. Dr. Anderson stated that to continue their operations without reducing their missions, and to cancel the debt, the Board would need $400,000 for the coming year. The Rev. Mr. Grout, of South Africa, and Rev. Mr. Vrooman, of Canton, spoke affectingly concerning the missions. Mr. V. believed Chims has been kept closed up till now because Churches have not been prepared to christianize it before. He thought three hundred and fifty thousand laborers could be immediately employed.

Republican and American State Convention assembled at Wieting Hall at noon to-day, and organized by appointing Hon. Exra Graves, of Herkimer County, as temporary President.

A word more, and I have none. I have been told that it is not right for me to address the people nor yet to participate in politics, because I happen to be a government officer, an humble employee of one of the departments. My first duty is to the Government, and I try to discharge it. That done, as an American citizen and a National Democrat I claim the right to defend the chief of my party and its principles, when attacked either by a pretended friend or an open enemy. The Vice-President of the United States has done so, and what is right in him cannot be wrong in a humble employee of the Post office Department. I boud appliance.] Gentlemen, I thank you for your attention.

The Convention then took a recess until 73% o'clock, when they re-assembled at the Hall in the State House.

Jan J. Neagle, Eaq., of Chicago, was called out and made the speech of the evening. It was a bold, argumentative, and sometimes cause its speech, and attracted strong attention by some of its positions.

P. B. Sheppard, of Decatur, in a rollicking speech, kept the faishful in a roar until we left to take the cars for Chicago.

brate to day. I will mention my brester Dudny, with whom so well as myself the coheme originated, and who has been my adviser and helper throughout; my carellest friends, Mesers. Perser. Cooper, Moses Taylor, Marshal O. Roberts and Wilson G. Hant, who have spent their money as generously and borns up so manfully under great discouragements; Mr. Rest, Mr. Whitehouse and Mr. Bright, with whom I made an agreement in 1886, under which the Atlantic Telegraph Company was formed, after I had obtained the authority of the New York, Newfoundisend and London Telegraph Company to make arrangements in England for the completion of their line across the Atlantic, either by subscription to their company or by a new company; the British Government that came forward so nobly, in connection with which are expecially to be mentioned Lord Chirendon, and Sir John Pakington, the present, and Sir Ohia Wood, the late first Lord of the Admiralty; as also the Secretaries of the English Treasmry, and Captain Washington, hydrographer of her Majesty's navy; the Government of the United States—and I would particularly mention the President and Secretary of the May, the Governments of Newfoundiand, Prime Edward Island, Nova Scotia, Canada and Maine; these never-to-be-forgotten philosopophers, Licutennant Manry, Frofessor Morse, Professor Farroday, Professor Bache and Professor W. M. Lampson, George Peshody and Januss S. Morgan, of London. Imaan Johed to as a he Court of Reptune—may the neptlab never be put anusder.

SPERCH OF LORD NAPISH, THE MINISHE MINISTER.

Mr. Mayor and Gentlamen. When I received her Majossy's orders to proceed to the United States. If attered myself that I entered upon my duties at an anapacious time, and I observable a hope that the period of my residence might be calucident with that solid and hearty reconciliation of our respective countries, which the tend oncies of the age transparently indicated to the near at hand. Nor have I been disappointed the course of political affairs since my arrival has indeed exhibited some aspertites which it was impossible to foresee, and which could not be regarded without concern; but, gentlemen, I now hall in the event which we are met to celebrate a glorious compensation for past anxioties and an important security against future dangers. To be the contemporary and spectator of this great monument in human progress is slone a cause of honor and exultation. The triumph in which your distinguished guests have so high a share, does not only confer on them the celebrity and affection which marking bestow on their be protecting governments a claim to public gratitude and historic commendation—it adorns and dignifies the nations and the time in which it is wrought, it imparts to thousands the generous contagno of enterprise, it teaches the universal lesson of faith, patience and perseverance, it infases into men's cools a cause of concious worth, and pours on all, however humble and remite, the glow of reflected fame. I question whether any single schievement has ever united more festures of interest and utility. All the elements of adventure, difficulty, and hazard, have been here assembled which could arrest the imagination, and no virtue has been wanting which could satisfy the judgment and captivate the heart. Long will those soenes remain der to the popular memory, with what admiration do we contemplate the cheerfel enthusiasm of Field, inspiring hol atlantic Telegraph Company, who have devoted so much time without receiving one shilling for their services, and my consistent, faithful riends, Messra, C. M. Lampson, George Peabody and Junius S. Morgan, of London [Cheers]. I might add many others to this list. We have all worked faithfully and efficiently as we could in the prosecution of the good work. We have had many difficulties to surmount, many discouragements to bear, and some enemies to overcome, whose very opposition has stimulated us to greater exertion (Cheers). We believe that the work accomilated will prove a great and issting benefit to our race. If it effect but a tithe of what is expected from it we shall be more, much more than rewarded for what we have done. [Lond and continued applause].

Texas Cattle Fever.—The Texas fever has made great have among the cattle in the bottom just opposite this city. Numbers of them have died from its effects during the past week. The same disease prevails, we understand, to a limited extent, in some parts of this county. We trust that our people will never permit another drove of Texas or Mexican stock to enter the county. They owe this to themselves, in self-deience.—Lexagion (Missouri) Figures.

There Draylis from one Blesser.—Mr. John Wilson, a school teacher at Talladega, Ala, his negro woman, and a Mrs. Lawlor, all died a few days since, from taking large does of morphine, which a stupid druggist put up for quinme.

HORIBLE.—The Mayville (N. Y.) Sentinel says that, on Friday o, week before last, a man named Daniels, a resident of Jamestown, was arrested by officer Loucks, of that village, on a charge of incest with two of his daughters, aged 15 and 18. O. Cook, Eq., as us con user waived an examination, and Daniels was committed to juil. He is a man some 60 years of are. 00 years of age.

YELLOW FEVER AT VICKESCHO.—The Vicksburg Wagof Saturday says that singe the appearance of the first case of yellow fever, there has been a very general stampede. The cars go out crowded, and every m cans of getting away are brought into requisition to place the affrighted people beyond the reach of "yellow jack."

YELLOW FAVER PATIENTS PREVADING BROCKLYK.—Slice the distruction of the St. Nicholas building at Quarantine, the persons were confined in that building, on account of having arrived in infected ships, have left Statien Island, and come to New York and Brocklym. Among these probably, several cases of yellow fever and small-pox. To prevent their spread in Brocklyn, Mayor Powell has taken sieps to have about one hundred men appointed espe. inlly to patrol the wharves and shore as far as Bay Ridge, for the purpose of preventing any one landing in this city from Staten Island. The affair has created great exci ement among the residents of the Eighth precinct, where the fever made grate havoe when it visited us two years since.—N. Y. Beeining Post.

I would not darken the legit. commodities will become a condition almost incommodities will become a condition almost inseparable from existence; and whatever stimuists this development will oppose a powerfulbatacle to the rupture of panific relations. Noman of common liberality and penetration will question the position and certain merits of a disovery which has connected England will damerica, and America with the whole civilized world besides. I would not darken the legitimate satisfaction of the present moment by uttering a reluciant or skeptical estimate of our new faculty. Yet, even in this hour of careless and convivial felicitation, we shall do well to remember that the magnetic telegraph forms no exception to the category of inventions which, nowwere apt and proper, and willing to be the rehicles of benevolent designs, are also the unresisting tools of every blind or intemperate impulse in our matter. The votaries of a quere-BOYPIAN WHEAT.—Mr. A. P. Ladew, of this city, left with us yesterday a stalk of Egyptian wheat, grown from the seed taken from an Egyptian manmy, on his farm in tellean county, Ill.—St. Lais Repub. resisting tools of every blind or intemperate im-pulse in our nature. The votaries of a quera-ious philosophy speciously assert the unequal march of morality and mind; and even a poet has affirmed, in foreboding verse, that all the train of arts which have reduced the material elements to be the vassals of our will, and the grasp which we have seedersal.

Lord Napier's election, says the Evening Past, in thoroughly English, which, in this country, will not be regarded as a very high compliment; but his speech was folicitous and statemanliks. It was well received, though its merits will be better appreciated from a permal in print, than it was in the clatter of the dining hall, where it seemed impossible to command alloues.

We did not know that Egyptian mummie were found so close by us as that. What doe a man want with an Egyptian mummy on his farm? As a scarecros?—Louisville Journal. farm? As a scarceros?—Losisville Journal.

Norm Canolina Gold.—The Montgomery county gold, so much talked of lately, is no nambag. Mr. Christian was in town a few days ago with his pockets full. The specimens he brought with him were vers richworth some $3,000 to $4,000. One of the nugets, about twice the size of a man's fis, weighed 7½ has, and contained rather more than 6 lbs. of gold—say nearly $2,000. This and several other rich, but less valuable specimens, were left here for exhibition. They took the shine off our other rocks. These latter, however, are all right again, for gold rocks do not sizy long on exhibition; and coal rocks, copper rocks, lead rocks, and black bad iron rocks, are in the ascendant, as they ought to be. — Fayetieville (N. C.) Healurt a passion or a pass Emination of human hearts. It belongs to our respective countries and to the present age to confound that speculation which would divide knowledge from virtue and inquiry from improvement. The labor will not be light, nor is the eventual victory every where apparent, yet there is one province of afairs in which the task would be easy and the sriumph within our grasp. It depends on us, on our will, on our choice, to earry into perpetual effect the sentiment which the honorable chair man has associated with his tosis; it depends on us to strike out for ever from the sum of public and social embarrasements all the contingencies of a collision between England and America. If we should not employ our unprecedented powers in a triendly spirit, if we should hereafter offer unreflecting provocation and conceive hasty resentment, if every transient cloud which ascends on the political sky be halled as a prognostic of a destructive storm, if we should make haste to unlock the well of bitter waters, and to raise the phantoms of extinct pretonsions and buried wrongs, then would this memorable effort of ingenuity and toil be partly ceat away. [Applanes.] Gentlemen, I am confident that we shall pursue a very different course. The Queen has sent tidings of goodwill to the President, and the President has made a corresponding answer to the Queen. [Cheers.] Let our governments be conhearts.

Our education has been such, that we have ever been rather in favor of the equality of the block; that is, that they should enjoy all the privileges of the cel ites where they existe. We are aware that this is not a very popular doctrine. We have had many a combe with some who are now strong "Republicans," we taking the broad ground of equality and they the opposite ground.

We were brought up in a State where blacks were voters, and we do not know of any inconvenience resulting from it, though perhaps it would not work as well where the blacks are woners on the state of the whites to guard against such an evil, if it is one. Our opinion is that it would be best for all concerned to have the colored population in a State by themseves, but if within the jurisdie. les such party at that time and for nearly two years thereafter in existence in the State—is yet fresh in the recollection of the public. Since the argoure of that forgery and of the falsehoods by worch be endeavored to sustain it, Mr. Douglas has been driven to the necessity of hunting up the resolutions of other local meetings in the Northern portion of the State, held about the same, period, which sushody the same or kindred sentiments, by which he seeks to establish a welformity of seatlment among those who participated in the meetings, and for which he claims that the Republican party of the whole State is responsible, in twithstanding all these meetings were held before the organization of that party. We propose now to refresh the memory of Senator Douglas respecting certain Conventions of his own party in the same section of the State, and the resolutions adopted by those Conventions—and to remind him that he indersed the action of these Conventions by supporting their no enliness and The above will probably be deemed sufficient, though it would be an easy matter to extend the record Indefinitely. But we have adduced proof enough to show that he Democracy of Illinois, by their regularly constituted Conventions, and through their regularly noministed candidates, are as fully committed on all points of the slavery question, as any pure, unadulterated, open and arowed Abolition Convention that was ever held. Let us summarize their creed upon the slavery Conventious by supporting their nominees and by recognizing them as in full fellowship with his party after their election. In the summer of 1850, Hon. Thompson Campbell was nominated for Congress by the Democracy of the Galena District. We have not been able to find the resolutions ad pled by the Convention which nominated him, ad pied by the Convention which nominated him, but we are in possession of Mr. Campbell's reply to certain interrogatories on the shavery question during the pendency of the canvas, which replies may be regarded as the platform of the Demberacy of his District in 1850. The following are the in-Let us summarize their creed upon the slavery question, as embracéd in the above resolutions, letters from candidates, and extracts from Dem-ocratic organs: 1. Prohibition of slavery in all the Territories. 2. No more slave States. 3. The sholltion of slavery in the District of Co-lumbia. 4. The abplition of the inter-State slave trade. 5. The repeal of the Fugitive Slave of his District to 1850. The following are the interrogatories and Mr. Campbell's reply:

1s. Will yoe, if elected, vote for and cordially supports bill incubibiting slavery in the Perritories of the United States.

2d. Will you over for and support a bill abolishing slavery in the District of Columbia 7

3d. Will you copies the admission of any Slave States which may be formed out of Texas or the Territories?

4th Will you wide for and advocate the repeal of the Pagilive Slave Law passed at the recent session of Congress 7

5th. Will you advocate and vote for the election of a 'peaser of the House of Representatives who

6th. What are your views not only as to the enstirational right of Congress to prohibit the Slave Trade between the States, but also as to the *x pediency of exercising that right immediately? slave trade. 5. The repeal of the Fugitive Slave law, 6. That "the time has arrived when all men should be free." 7. The equality of the negro to vote and to hold the office of Representative and Senator in Congress.

Now let it be remembered that all these doctrines were avowed by men laboring within and sindline. The permentation of the Democratic

In view of which we submit, that if he (Douglas) is justified in bolding Mr. Lincola responsible for sentiments which he never entertained, and which are not to be found in any of the platforms or resolutions, all either the old Whig party or the present Republican party, (the only political organizations he has ever been identified with), that with far greater reson would Mr. Lincola and the public be justified in bolding Mr. Douglas responsible for the sentiments embodied in the platforms and resolutions of his nextre and freely and publicly and resolutions of his nextre and freely and publicly and publicly and Justified as Justified in expressions of his nextre and freely and publicly and publicly and Justified as Justified in expressions of "antipathy and disgua." while sitting as Justified with he days to the measure function, part ality or prejudice, and who, from that exacted station spews out his wilgarity while sitting as Justified as Justified as a Justified with he days to the first the considering that the great and emicron entires the considering that the measure here demonates and Vashington, Adams, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe and Jacksson, the people can judge how much respect is due to the man who, complying a high official position, that of a J stice of the Suprementation of his government."—P. 93.

To the third interrogatory I reply, that I am opposed to the admission of any more Stare States into the Union, that may be formed out of Texan or any other Territory.

To the fourth and fifth interrogatories I undestratingly answer in the affi mative. To the fourth and thus the service head alongly answer in the self mative.

To the sixth interrogatory i reply, that so long as the Slave States cont mue to treat Slaves as Articles of Commerce, the Constitution confrast executar COMMERCE, and that the protection of Human Rubts imperatively demands the interposition of every constitutional means to prevent this most inhuman and infiguitous traffic.

"It has been attempted to convert this probibitory provision of the act of 1820 not only into a weapon with which to assail the inherent—the necessarily inherent powers of independent sovereign governments, but into a mean of forfeiting that equality of rights and immunities which are the buthright or the donation from the Count lation of every citizen of the United States, within the length and breathful of the nation. In this attempt there is asserted a power in Congress, whether from i centives of interest, ignorance, faction, partiality or prightle, to bestow upon a portion of the citizens of this nation that which is the common property and pr vilege of all; the power, in fluo, of co facultoe, in retribution to no offence, or if for an offence, for that of accidental locality only.

It is only when they leave their jadicial continues, and engage to just what these Judges were doing, manufacturing political capital, that hat they have 'adversaries.' Yes, there is one other remarkable thing in Mr. Justice Campbell' opinion. It is the luminous conclusion at which he arrives, that the judgment below ought to be ither affirmed or reversed -p. 124.

Mr Justice Catron puts the case thus "Congress cannot do indirectly what the Constitution prohibits directly. If the slavehol er i pro-id-liked from going to the Territory with hi siaves, who are parts of his tam y in name and it fact, it will follow that men owning lawful prop not, i. will follow that man owning lawful gety in their own States, carrying with them equality of their States, to enjoy the dominon gray, m y be, told, You cannot come here your siaves, and we will held you out at the dee. Court who promulgated the doctrine of Federal Constitutional slavery in the Territories. We have quoted their opinions in their own lan-guage, because some of the supporters of Mr Douglas have denied to the decision the character we have imputed to it; and some who pretend to some knowledge of law, with a quibthat the Constitution carries slavery into the that instrument. These wiseacres seem to have made the remarkable discovery that the Constitution has not the power of a locomo groes bodily into the Territories. Well, they ought to have credit for having found out so much. It shows a power of discrimination which, it improved, may lead them finally to discover that it slavery goes there by virtue of the absolute and irreversible protection which the Constitution affords, it is not very material whether it is said to go there over it,

This is the decision, or rather these are the outside and extra judicial dieta of the Judges, in a case which they themselves declared was not before them, because, before they announoed these principles, they had decided that Dred Scott had no power to bring a suit in the Federal Courts, and that they had no ju-risdiction of the case. But the decision was a part of the play. It was in the programme. It exactly fits not only the Kansas-Nebraska bill, but the Cincinnati platform. Observe, all these Judges put their right to carry and hold slaves in the Territories upon the foot-

Judge Douglas' "unfriendly legislation" is urged, what regard would be paid to it? Or, yet worse, suppose there is no local legislation at all, on the subject, which is the all imaginable and countriess, for then the discretion of the Jadge becomes the only rule of law, what chance would freedom have before such a tribunal? And suppose, even, that the Judge is honestly disposed to favor the public synthment in favor of features. that the Judge is honestly disposed to favor the public sentiment in favor of freedom, but, bound by the Constitution as the parabut, bound by the Constitution as the para-mount law, and sworn to support it, how is he to administer these "unfriendly" laws? Simply by committing perjury every time he opens his mouth to pronounce a decision! And this is statesmanship! All this fustion about "Popular Sovereignty," to which our distinguished senator has devoted twenty-five years of his life, and has pledged the residue of it, has come to this "lame and impotent conclusion." If this is not sublimated folly we should like to know where that commodity is to be met with. Can Douglasites in Itlinois be fed on this sort of garbage ! Verily, the "milk-maid" has "conceived chaff and brought forth stubble." The Dred Scott Judges, no less than Mr. Douglas, have rested their decision upon this gross fallacy in regard to property. Certain things are universally acknowledged as pro-perty where the common law prevails. Sla very is an exception to this rule. It has been over and often decided not only by the Su-preme Court of the United States, by the court of last resort in nearly all the slave States that that species of property can exist only by positive law. That positive law these judges pretend to have found in the Constitution We deny that it is there; and that is the difference between us. Mr. Benton attributes to the judges the absurdity of having decided that the slaveholder in carrying his slave into local law of slavery along with him, and the language they have employed amounts to that. This would nullify Mr. Douglas' theory, for then the slaveholder would import all the law he would have any use for. It is omewhat difficult to determ two follies is the greatest; but the truth is, if tees that kind of property the owner's right is perfect and irresisible.

Let Mr. Douglas be one thing or another, fish, fiesh or fowl, and not be dodging and skulking about, sometimes one thing, sometimes another, and sometimes both at once. As Republicans we expect to combat these federal heresies until they go under. We can respect a bold and manly adversary, however much we may differ with him in opinion, but the man who has no principles we neither respect nor fear.

Douglas' New Position.

The Louisvile Journal does not under rate the intelligence and fairness of the Republicans of Illinois when it assumes that Mr. Douglas' latest position on the Dred Scott decision is more distasteful to them than the doctrines of the decision itself. We believe that we know the sentiment of the party in this State, and we declare that they are ready on the Slavery question, as long as they are ranks should we look for so mean and petty an expedient as that employed by Mr. Doug-lasto get rid of the operation of what the Court has decided, or will decide, to be in accordance with the constitution and the laws. If it be ultimately determined that slavery exists in all the Territories, by virtue of the constitution alone, let the supporters of the institution make the most of the advantage which their position gives them. We may deny the justice and constitutionality of the lecision which so ordains ; we may leave no effort untried to reverse it and to educate the people, and through them, the Court, up to that we believe to be the true constitu tandard; but there could not be any action endorsed-by a great and generous party like that to which we belong, so exceedingly petty as that which Senator Donglas recom ends as the means of evading the conse-uences of a constitutional provision: We do ot believe that there is or can be, by-virtue of the Federal compact, such a tning as properly in man. But if it is otherwise determined, and is entitled to all the rights and privileges o even though the consequences be to bring Slavery into the Free States. We have no Slavery into the Free idea of setting aside the decisions of the most of procedure that would disgrace a pestier in a magistrate's court. In all this matter, however, we believe that Senator Douglas is not honest in his avowais.

The alarming demonstrations of popular dis favor have driven him to this extremity; and his concession to the Free soil sentiment is one of the tricks in which politicians of his kidney are apt to isdulge. He is too deeply identified with Calbonuism; he has too often and too emphatically endorsed its dogmas; and he has staked too much on the chance of its success, to shandon it now. But il he be in earnest, he has chosen the wrong way to reach the heart of the opposition in the North. Having slavery with great intensity —with a hatred stimulated by their moral training and obvious sel.-interest—they have not so far forgotten their constitut onal duties as to evade them by a trics. Senator Douglas may be satisfied with his dodge; but it increases the dislike with which, since he became a disciple of Calboun, the Republicans of the North have never falled to regard in.

Lincuis. Legan County. Ill., Sept. 4, 1884.

About nine o'clock this morating Spaulding.

A "solitary horseman was seen occasionally to arrive, but overythin looked preternaturally dull through the morting, and the visages of the Douglastics were unling, and the visages of the Douglastics were unline. ing, and the visages of the Douglasites were uncommonly elongsted. At length, mounted on a freight car, came that cannon from Atlanta, with four boys who were ambitious to wear red shirts and "touch her off" during the day. It is a matter of speculation whether this arrival, or the patent medicine peddler's team of white powies and Sa naritan looking mules, most aroused the enthusiasm of the day.

steam whatte was blown long and loud, and the fresh went up and brought Douglas down from Atlanta, to keep his appointment at the circus. Except a wheezy band and a half a dozen wheezy politicians from Bloomington, (together with two young persons whom I took to be Douglas' baggage men, I perceived no addit to the train in its return. Simultaneously with this arrival, a company of ladies on costume for the "unexpected attraction" which Messra. Spaulding & Roger's had prepared for us, so-companied by their men and boys, came in on horseback from Pulsaki township. This was the "sensation" of the day. Part of the compeny went immediately to the circus, and the balance (men and boys) liquored unanimously. Measra. Spalding & Rogers morning enter-tainment was all that could be desired. It was tainment was all that could be desired. It was risited by Douglas and his baggage carriers and the committee of arrangements, about noon They had previously visited the Court House where seats and a stand had been erested which Douglas declared he would not use—h knew his partnership arrangement with the circus to be better. A few of the more thoughtful Dred Scottites, with a sense of the fitness of things, had determined to have the speaking at the Court House, and so advertised; and on old man even said he wouldn't rote for Douglas if he made his speech in the circus. But the Little Ginnt had arranged for the long wagon in which the baggage of the "Motley Bro-thers"—miscellaneous balancers—and that of thers' -- misceumneous variation of two horses going Charley Walters, the rider of two horses going This estab

Several innocent persons raised their voices in opposition to this sort of entrapping, but Douglas articulato this sort of entrapping, but Douglas articula-lated above the clamor of half a dozen babies (who were evidently desiring him to "bring Old Abe to his mith"), that he understood the game of those Black Republicans perfectly well. They wanted to interrupt him and make him consume his time and "avoid the issuest"—and consume his time and "avoid the issues"-and consume his time and "avoid the issues"—and the same stuff he got off at Freeport.

Then came the "novel and startling feata." In the character of harlequin he called Judge Frambull a liar—which did not pass for a novelty down this way. Then essaying the role of the trick rider, he made a mis-quotation of Judge Trambull's late speech, for which he was called to account by a gentleman in the audience. Quickly throwing on the lion's skin of the "Modern Hercules," (Libby, of Spaulding & Rogers' troups,) he called to his Democratic friends to "put him out"—ye gods! He would teach these Black Republicans to disturb his meeting—he would. Indeed he performed in "Ercles' vein" until the great ruffian, who asked him the question, was quite outside the asked him the question, was quite outside the But those who saw the "world-renowned,"

They will bite and kick—usually ending by starting off in different kick —usually ending by starting off in different directions, and throwing the bold rider head first into the pit. This time they were even more ferocious than usual. They snorted at sight of each ether, before the celebrated eques-trian stempted to pount, and scarcely had his foot touched the cushion on the back of Tooms Bill, when the rascal reared on his hind legs, threw himself forward, and then kicked straight at the top of the centre pole. The action was so violent and sudden, that Mons. Douglas turned a double-summersault in the air, and came down with a fearful concussion. He was picked up and dusted off by the clown, and man-aged to articulate, a few moments afterwards,

The two sorts of Democracy having had their jubliess in little De Witt, the Republicans coneluded to see what they could do in that line. The result has been a demonstration larger in number, livellerjin enthusiasm and every way excelling in strength both the others put together. The morning was showery and the whole day has been cloudy and lowering, yet the turn-out was by far may attend. Since our last vuit, a building con taining an editors' room, the Superintendent's unining an editors' room, the Superintendent's office, and telegraph office, has been erected. The editors' room is large and well fitted up, and will be found a great convenience to the fraternity, and to those of the corps who take their bed ling with them this room will furnish a good eleeping room also, as it has a good floor and well glazed windows. cloudy and lowering, yet the turn-out was by far the largest ever congregated in this region. Let me give you a few particulars.

The Bloomington delegation came down with five full cars—nearly three hundred strong—ac-companied by a fine brass band. They carried a banner representing Douglas in a sort of five act tragedy—one foot on the Declaration of Inde-pendence and the other on the Missouri Compro-mise, togging at a chain which held four Missi-sinn ingrem whem (I mean oshes) he was trying mise, tugging at a chain which held four Mississippi niggers whom (I mean soluch) he was trying to drag into Illinois. Chief Justice Taney was smiling on the efforts of the Little Giant and remarking, "the negro has no rights which white men are bound to respect." Douglas was mutter something, not distinctly understood, about "police regulations."

Mr. Lincoln came up from Decaur on the morning train and was forced by the citizens of Cinton ing train and was forced by the citizens of Clinton to go on to Wapella and allow them to escort him back with a procession. Arrived at Wapella he was taken in custedy by the citizens of that place until the Clintonians arrived. All along the road to Clinton the procession was swelled by accessions from the country, and when it reached the "Mound," it was over a mile in length by section lines—the whole under the excellent superintend-ence and marshalship of B. F. Fard, Esq., an ardent Old Line Whig and fast friend of Mr. Lin-coln. Scores of banners fluttered along the line of the procession with various devices. The most noticeable one was borne in a large wagon con-taining the family of John Campbell, Esq. PAP SAYR, GO POR LINCOLN.

Mr. Campbell has resided in Sangamon and D Witt Counties since 1824, and says he has voted Witt Consties since 1824, and says he has voted the Wnig and Republican tickets for forty-five years. He and Lis boys are now ready to plump seven straight votes for Lincoln.

When Mr. Lincoln arrived at the "Mound" he was greeted with three rousing cheers; after which Lawrence Weldon, Esq. made the following appropriate and forcible reception speech:

Mn. Lincoln: "The citizens of De Witt Consty favorable to your election to the United States Senate have deputed me to offer to you a kind welcome on this occasion; and although it has been your habit to visit our county frequently in the last twenty years, you have never come amongst ns when you were an object of such peculiar interest as you are to-day. The tickets will be issued on the 12th inst, ready for the evening trains. In reference to the running of trains to Jonesboro and Decatur, half-fare will be charged, thus giving those who may wish to visit north or south, an opportunity of doing so at a cheap rate.

It will be recollected that the grounds are one and a half miles north of the depot at Centralia, and within a few rods of the track. At this point is a side-track, where the trains will stop. We deshould have mentioned that among the structures on the Pair grounds is a large baggage room, where carpet eacks and other "fixin's" can be deposited and checked, which will be found very convenient. The passenger house at Centralia is being put in order, and will be found a most excellent place for those having ladies with them. This house is among the best in the State, and will accommodate a large number of guests.

We will renture the prediction that more sales of stock and agricultural implements will be made at this, than all of our other State Fairs put together. Let no one remain at home for fear that they will not find ample accommodations.

Douglas and Lincoln.

A writer in the New York Evening Post who was present at the Ottawa debate, and who then listened for the first time to the two chamtions, gives his impression of them in the fol-ret, thick-set, burly man, was the set, have y hair, d'rk complexion, and florce dog look. Strong in his own real power, skilled by a thousand conflicts in all the kery of a hand-to-hand or a general fight; towering ambition, restless in his determination of the protocology proud, deflant, arrot, and action, unserupulom, "Little Dug," anded the platform and looked out impodented carcinssiy on the immense throng which god and atruggled before him. A native of grount, reared on a soil where no alave stood, came to Illinois a teacher, and from one post-

Prom the Illinois State Journal.

Mr. Douglas claims for himself, and his friends claim for him, preat oredit for his opposition to the Lecompton Constitution.

We propose to show our readers that sardid motives alone led him to take the position he did on that question; that selfash reasons purely, influenced him to aut loose from his former friends and make war upon the party with which he-had always acted; while he would have us believe that he was doing it all in the name of patriotism.

No public man hes abused the Free State men of Kansas with more bitterness and coarseness than Judge Douglas. We could never find language adequate to coavey the volume of indignation which we have felt, when the Senator from Illinois has from time to time seen fit to vilify and malign the people of that Territory, and those who syn.pathized with them.

His curse has been a series of insults to the freemen of the North, and those of the State which he represents, and the smart of those insults should turn and sting into our memories forever. Our Senator has never had a word of condemnation or reproof for the Border Ruffians of Kansas; on the contrary, he has more than quoe sought to justify their nets of violence and blood by throwing the responsibility upon the Free State men. These are facts which are matters of record, and will cling to him through life like the shirt of Nersus. He said in his place in the Senate, in April, 1856:

"All these gentlemen want is to ret up murder and bloodbed."

They sent their shirt of Nessus. He said in his place in the Senate, in April, 1856:

"All these gentlemen want is to get up murder and bloodshed.

"They sent their partisan agents to get up resellioe, to commit crime, to burn houses, and then their newspaper agents are to report their acts bere, and charge them to the Border Ruffiams."

What is the secret of his new-born regard for the rights of the people of Kansas? A debate which occurred in the House of Representatives on the 27th of March last, and continued on the 29th, will give us some light on this subject.

On that occasion Mr. Smith, a Democratic member from Virginia, had the floor, and referred to Mr. Douglas" former position, and asked the pertinent question—

"What has occurred since to induce a change of his course?" And then proceeded to answer in this wise: "I fear ambition has dense its work; I fear imaginary private griefs have been actively at work. I have heard of a meeting of the Illinois delegation to consider the policy to be pursued. I give at least one gentleman from Illinois notice, that I shall bring up a matter in connection with the movement of that delegation in reference to this defection on the Kansas question, when I have an opportunity to do so. I intended to pay my respects to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. Cox), but I have not the time."

Here Mr. bmith was interrupted by Mr. Marsball, of Illinois, who wished that if he (Smith) had anything to say about the Illinois delegation, that he would "charge it, and not insinuate it."

can.

Mr. Marshall—"What does the gentleman charge?"

As Mr. Smith's time had now nearly expired, the asked that it might be extended. This was objected to by Mr. Burnett, of Kentucky.

Mr. Smith—"I wi I say this in conclusion, that the delegation from Illinois, or a portion of them at any rate, met together here, when Congr ss assembled, to consider the course which a certain gentleman in the other end of the capitol should pursue, and the means he should use to secure his reselection to the United States Senate. I say that much, and I will make out the case when I have time. I say that certain extraordinary action has resulted in a concerted movement, having an eye alone to his re-election."

[Here the hammer fell]

The member who now obtained the floor, yielded for a moment to Mr. Marshall, of Illinois, who denied the charge of the gentleman from Virginia.

Mr. Smita, of Virginia—"I do not know about it of my own knowledge; but when a member of that delegation speaks to that effect, when he tells it to me usible of rearwe, tells it to not nother person, and, i may say, to still another,—I allinde to the successor of the gallant Echardson.—I take it to be true. He told me that they had a conference; that in that conference they came to the conclusion that the only chance for the relection of Mr. Douglas to the United States Senate was in the course he has pursued. I speak openly and aquardy, because I have nothing to fear, nor favor to ush.

The disclosures of Mr. Smith threw the aguarsty, because I have nothing to fear, nor favor to usit."

The disclosures of Mr. Smith threw the House into the utmost confusion, and the Speaker being unable to obtain order, a motion to adjourn was made and carried.

On Monday, the 29th of March, the debate on this subject was re-opened by explanations from some of the members from Illinois, Mr. Morris, although he attempted to dodge the question, admitted that he, himself, had said:

"That neither Judge Douglas, or any body else, who would support the Lecompton Constitution, could or would be sustained by the people of Illinois; and that our Southern friends, who were so bitter and denunciatory in their course, and for whom we have battled so long, and against such fearful obstacles, ought to have some regard for our posation."

Mr. Smith, of Virginia.—"Mr. Speaker:—It will be recollected by gentlemen that on yesterday I made reference to a member of the Illinois delegation, substantisly in the language which has been quoted by the gentleman near me. [Mr. Shaw.] That member, I stated in another part of my remarks, was the successor of the gallant Col. Richardson, I referred to the gentleman who has just spoken, [Mr. diorris]. I stated, on that occasion, and my purpose is to repeat with, if possible, more distonations than then, that after this Congress had commenced its session—I do not recollect the exact time—in a free conversation on public questions with the honorable gentleman from

Our Foreign Correspondence.

Harriage a. June 23, 1855.

I have suddenly relinquished the pleasures of traviling, and become a student. My Italian dream has suded; a day of sober reatalian dram has ended; a day of socer re-alities is now before me. Our collection of pictures is by no means complete—Venice, the most beautiful of all, is wanting. This bright morning I will leave my studies, and, accompanying you, will visit the Bride of the Sea. We will find her, as in the olden time, dressed in her gayest garments; but, like a beauty who has outlived her charms, with a sad, care-worn smile upon her face.

Many a year has passed away since her annual marriage festival; meanwhile, her sponse has become inconstant, has sought other favorites and heaped his gifts upon

Venice is in every respect unique, and produces a peculiar impression. The unending noise of carriages is never heard; no beast of burden, except man, is seen. From morning till night you sit in a gondola, and of burden, except man, is seen. From morning till night you sit in a gondola, and lass a succession of beautiful airy-like buildings, mostly churches and palaces, which you afterwards recall to mind as dreams, as creations of the imagination. The spirit of romance dwells here, and gives reality to the most boylsh dream of Fairy-land. In the first place you find the gondolas exactly as you expected—long, black and as graceful as a swan. When rowed by skillful gondoliers they seem to rest upon air rather than water, so free, so unconstrained are their movements. Then the palaces, built, not after the modern rules with sharp angles and precise mathematical translations. with sharp angles and precise mathematical lines, but, as one would think, according to the most extravagant poet's fancy, more than satisfy your preconceived idea of Venetian architecture. Diversity is given to the scene by innumerable churches, with towers, domes and minarets like those of a mosque. Water mm, welcomes us, as he did of oid the victorious sailors returning with Eastern spoils. On the right and left are beautiful buildings, among which the Doge's Palace, with its long rows of graceful arches, its treasures of art, its renowned prisons and Bridge of Sighy, of which the poets sing, is most conspicuous. Here might we remain long, entirely satisfied, not even hoping to find a structure, built by human hands, of a sublimer or more pleasing aspect. But we are attracted, drawn on by new wonders, until the entire city possesses to our eyes and imagination a charm which, we thought, could exisn only in Fairyland. St. Mark's Place is before us. Three sides are occupied by long, palace-like buildings. Beneath the arches may be seen representations of nearly every nation. The Greek and Turk, with their Oriental costumes, are smoking their long pipes; Europeaus, foreigner and Venetian, are lounging before the cafes—the Frenchman with his wine, the German with his beer, and the Englishman with his stout—langhing, chatting, and enjoying the music. Small bands of musicians are playing and singing to admiring crowds, and now and then a fair songstress gathers a rich harvest of cestessimi and kreuzers—not for her singing, which is by no means objectionable, but for her pretty face, the stranger opens his purse. Children are playing on the broad pavement; ladies, gaily dressed and fascinating, onliven the crowd by smiles and pleasant words. We may remain here until midnight, dreaming happy dreams and gratifying every sense. St. Mark's Place is the heart of Venice—the center of life. At every pulsation, living streams are sent to every part of the great body. His chief attraction is St. Mark's Church, which, on account of its treasures, its curiodities and its peculiar style of architecture, is the most interesting building in Venice. It is ornamented with spolls from the East; rich mosaics cover its walls, and various colored marble form the pavement. Externally it resembles a mosque more than a Christian church—a po Chicago Defended. I have found little scenery in Europe that pleased me as much as that upon the route between Trient and Innsbruck. We rode twenty hours, night and day, for the most part through aarrow valleys, hommed in hy lofty mountains, whose sides were clothed with the dark fir tree, and whose heads were crowned with gternal snow. We followed the tributaries of the giver Adige to their sources in the glaciers, then leaving the mountains, found a companion in the river han, which takes an opposite direction. There is something anspeakably charming in a mountain stream in the midst of its proper surroundings. Nature and solitude assist alike in producing a wonderful impression upon the mind, and a murmaring brook has nearly the same effect upon one who is capable of deep feeling, as a soft melody at night when man is alone with his God. Here in these solitary places where miture appears in her grandest forms, we find more purity and uprightness in man than in populous cities teeming with vice and corruption—an idea of the Aimughty's might and grandeur grows and expands invisibly with the thoughts.

when northern climates become intolerable, and compare these places with scenes in Germany. Bologna, Ferrars and many other flourishing towns I have not mentioned, because they have so much in common with the rest of Italy. Bologna is noted only for its feating towers, its colonnades in every street, beneath which you are always protected against the inclemency of the weather; its celebrated University, with the finest preparations in wax for medical students in the world; its splendid picture gallery; its churches, museums; its strange dialect, and Bologna sausages. This catalogue would indeed be regarded with wonder in any other country but Italy, where the gems of every art are presented to the admiration of travelers. After one has seen Florence and Rome and Naples, Bologna must be ranked among second rate cities. Ferrars was once capital of an important Dukedom, but now retains only a few fine buildings, and the prison in which Tasso was confined, to and the prison in which Tasso was confined, to arrest the stranger's footsteps. The country between Ferrara and Venice is flat and swampy, being exposed to the fury of the rivers Po and Adige—turbid, unruly streams, that seem to take delight in the mischief they do. The Po has high embankments, or levees, within which it often rises as high as many housetops in Fe

I remained in Verona a few hours. It was Sanday afternoon. A traveling troope was performing in the old Roman amphitheatre, upon a modern stage. The broad seats, as perfect as when Roman citizens occupied them, were considered with soldiers, working neonle entiring the soldiers. crowded with soldiers, working people enjoying their weekly holiday, and strangers. A few hundred persons ast where thousands have witnessed the bloody combat between man and and minarcis like those of a mosque. Water is everywhere. You cannot move without seeing it; and as it is almost impossible to find your way through the few narrow streets or alleys, you are obliged to have a gondola at your command—the most luxurious as well as most conveyance. Venice rests in her lagoons like a bright jewel in an emerald ground.

We direct our gondola towards the port, and the Lice of St. Mark, upon his loft col. or alleys, you are obliged to have a gondols at your command—the most laxurious as well as those below him. This manner of constructing public buildings, in which the ground.

On the right and left are beautiful buildings, among which the Doge's Palace, with its long rows of graceful arches; its treasures of art, its renowned prisons and Bridge of Sight, of which the poets sigh, is most conspicuous. Here might we remain long, entirely satisfied, not even hoping to find a structure, built by human hands, of a sublimer or measure on year worder, until the entire city possesses to our eyes and imagination a charm which, we thought to the continuous constitution of the capture of these buildings in a perfect state.
